Today about three o'clock today is 821 22. And about three o'clock today. The neighbors came down, he parks his parking in front of my house. He knows we don't get along and he's parking in front of my house. And this is the same neighbor that stood at that while we went down to look at the blueberries. He [REDACTED] stood out in his driveway and stared at us and then [REDACTED] us his like, Eat [REDACTED] and die look and I think I suspect that he flicked me off, and I [REDACTED] let you you know, you too, buddy. You do. And then he was always parking constantly in front of her house. And we know he doesn't want to get along. And we don't you know, we know going in so he was out there and he was making a big racket honker and you know, like making sure he likes his keys and then everything else like in everything else up making a big racket and and then his grandchildren came down and a little, a little small little goat cart and came and got him and then he drove up to their house and had come down back to back since. So it's [REDACTED] rather there's definitely something going on back
