[REDACTED] [REDACTED] 00:02

I [REDACTED] got a phone. It's like 434 40. On Tuesday, September the sixth. I [REDACTED] got off the phone with it. I need a basic kind of code enforcement. This is the kind of code enforcement that doesn't publish the code. And the code is in multiple pieces across your office. So there's not like it's not been, you know, it's [REDACTED] pretty much whatever she says it is. But I called them [REDACTED] the three properties we have surrounding those one is like, one we suspect we highly suspect is going to be a subdivision and she said it's not no one's applied for it and we're like, Okay, sure. The other one are the two houses that are beside us, and one is where a guide like plowed through the middle of the hill, you know, removed all the reinforcement that was executed, you know, keeping the hill together and then build the house on top of it. Well, what's gonna happen is is the foundation is going to slide out from underneath it. And the house is going to be condemned and a couple years, and then, you know, but [REDACTED] to her that's not not concerned, once the house was put down is considered settled, which is there's a pile of crap. And supposedly, if you go into a place like the only time it's actually by law, [REDACTED] to her, it's considered erosion is when you dirt has to be moved. So that you go in and remove all the ground cover roads is gonna occur, but that doesn't I didn't count its origin, although regime will occur and erosion doesn't occur unless it actually shows an erosion doesn't occur unless it dirt magically wanders on your property, or it gets into a streak stream. So drainage ditches don't count. So if the drainage fills up and impacts on my property, that's, they're not responsible for that. And nothing matters if it's under an acre and she's claiming it's under an acre. It's there's no way it is, but it's [REDACTED] kind of [REDACTED] It's like, dig pretty much you can go in and there's nothing preventing you. I mean, there's it's ridiculous. So that's another thing. That's something that's reason why you need to I need to get a hold of that. That actual like I turned in, did that clip it out. Because that's [REDACTED] ridiculous. So yeah, you can read the entire ground cover it does not consider clearing the land. And it's [REDACTED] yeah, it's [REDACTED] ridiculous. It's up there. Yep, that's it. All right. [REDACTED] irritating as [REDACTED] I live beside a literal [REDACTED] pile. And that's it. You know, it's like it's my they're not gonna do anything about it. So it's pretty obvious, like it's getting more and more obvious, like, you know, the fact that I've done these things. I've made these reports and they're not gonna do anything about it. He's like they're setting you know, you're set up. So, yep. So that was pretty pissed off. And I gotta figure out what to do about my ██████ rifle and everything else.
