

Untitled Note

Sun, Oct 09, 2022 [REDACTED] 2:32

SUMMARY [REDACTED]

grandfather, farm, mom, life, farmers, grandma, arrival, grandparents, embodiment, alzheimer, intro, symbolize, [REDACTED] lost, raised, failing, alright, remaining, stone, mark

SPEAKERS

[REDACTED] [REDACTED]

---

[REDACTED] [REDACTED] 00:00

Okay, this is [REDACTED] a rough draft letter to Mark Stone alright one period intro we're going been living on the same farm for ever we've been here since 1969 My grandfather bought it what the house and then couple years [REDACTED] but we've got some mom was still in high school thing at the point so it's been a while I've been here go over the [REDACTED] of my life the only home I've ever known and it's what I have left of my family basically and mom's gonna The only remaining failing arrival up there when else has passed away or lost contact with them. It's farmers will have worked great [REDACTED] practically raised me. I was raised by my mom, my grandparents my grandfather, and the farm was kind of grown to symbolize [REDACTED] like the embodiment my grandfather, so it's something that's kind of meant a lot to me and and grandma got Alzheimer's I dropped out of college and moved home to help take care of her help take care of my mom and try to save the farm and hold on to it. So it's definitely something I've sacrificed. So in the better years of my life you go to a doula do it

02:24