

Untitled Note

Wed, Nov 16, 2022 7:57AM 2:24

SUMMARY [REDACTED]

property, railroad crossing, simmons, quiet, fact, written, insignia, double dose, sign, engines, crawl, appearance, photos, requested, street, nashville, signal, railroad, highway, appears

SPEAKERS

[REDACTED] [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] [REDACTED] 00:02

Besides the usual right grabbing of engines and but things have been pretty quiet over here. In fact, we haven't seen Mr. Simmons for quite some time but today we got a double dose and he's definitely on the property. So we're every kind of watch out and keep quiet. Also, I wanted to mention in document the appearance of a railroad crossing is not a marking is actually it's a railroad crossing signal or sign or, you know, insignia that is written, right, like it's written pretty much right in the middle of our property. On its own, it's on the road that's in front of our house and it's written right in front of property. And so far away from Nashville stop sign, it doesn't make any sense. And the fact that the railroad is across the street on the opposite Yeah, I mean, it's like crawl on the opposite side of the highway across another street, and so there's no reason for it to be there. That someone has requested it and it appears to only be on our site so far. So we're looking, but don't take photos of that. That's uh, we're highly suspicious of that and you know, this is Yeah,